

SENATOR HANNA IS DYING

Patient is Expected to Pass Away Any Moment.

Kept Alive Monday Only by Most Heroic Treatment.

Hope of Recovery Was Abandoned Sunday Night.

Frequent Bulletins Issued During the Day From The Arlington Hotel Where the Ohio Senator Is Passing the Last Hours of His Life.

Washington, Feb. 15—(Bulletin)—4 p. m.—Senator Hanna is barely alive at 4 o'clock this afternoon, but the doctors say he may live several hours.

Washington, Feb. 15—Motionless as the dead, Senator Hanna lies at the Arlington, breathing out the last hours of his life.

The wonderful battle made in his behalf by love and science seems to have ended in defeat for the gallant defenders. The end cannot be long deferred.

For the last 24 hours the physicians have realized that hope was lost, but in spite of the nearness of the inevitable they have fought on, answering each thrust of the Reaper with a counter thrust of medical skill, giving up the ground they knew was lost only an inch at a time.

"They are just keeping him alive with oxygen and injections," said Wm. N. Cromwell at 9 a. m.

At 9:38 a. m. Secretary Dover came out of the sick room and said that the Senator was sinking slowly.

"His present condition," he said, "is entirely the result of stimulants. But for the most heroic measures he would be dead now. Doctors Carter and Osler both say that it is simply marvelous that the Senator is alive. The end may come at any moment now."

At 9:50 a. m. a hurried call was sent to the bar for brandy and a colored man came rushing up the stairs with a glass half filled with the stimulant. The spirits were needed for another subcutaneous injection.

At 9:16 Secretary of State Hay called upon Mrs. Hanna and the Senator's brother.

At 10:06 Medill McCormick and Harry Parsons, sons-in-law of the Senator, came from his room and announced that there had been no change for half an hour.

At 11 a. m. Senator Aldrich left the Hanna apartments and at 11:05 announced that if M. Hanna, the Senator's brother, told him that the patient was stronger at that time than he was two hours before. "No one dares hope," said Senator Aldrich. "That it is anything but a little postponement of the inevitable end."

Secretary Dover said at 11:40 that Senator Hanna was weaker. "Any statements to the contrary," he said, "are dreams. His pulse may strengthen a little once in a while, but there is no possibility of lasting improvement. We are simply waiting. He is being kept just alive by the constant use of oxygen. The moment that treatment would be discontinued, that meant he would probably die. There is no hope."

At 12:45 p. m. Manager Bennett of the Arlington, came from the sick room and announced that Senator Hanna is dying. The family has been summoned to the bedside.

At 1:07 p. m., Dr. Carter said that Senator Hanna might live an hour and a half.

At 2:00 Medill McCormick, the Senator's son-in-law, came from the sick room and announced that the patient's pulse was still perceptible. There really has been very little change during the last two or three hours. He said: "I would not be surprised if he were to live for three or four hours more."

Washington, Feb. 15—1:52 p. m.—"He is breathing his last." These are the words of abandonment of hope in Mr. Hanna's case.

Washington, Feb. 15—11:30 a. m.—Minister from Panama Bunau-Varilla lingered about the corridor leading to Senator Hanna's apartments for some time during the forenoon. Part of the time he was in consultation with Wm. Nelson Cromwell, the Panama Canal company's counsel. Representatives Dick and Burton, each of whom has been mentioned as the probable successor to Senator Hanna, also met in the hallway and discussed the latest news from the sick room. General Dick has had but little sleep since Senator Hanna became dangerously ill. Last night and the night before he sat up until nearly daybreak in the office with Secretary Dover. The latter and his assistant, Mr. Fisher, got no sleep at all last night and only three hours Saturday night.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Comment is made upon the rather dramatic fact that just as Senator Hanna's life is ebbing away the Senate should fix the date for a vote on the Panama canal treaty which action is tantamount to its ratification. Thus almost at the moment of his death the last step has been taken for the inauguration of the great work for which he fought so hard. The Senate in executive session about noon today agreed upon Tuesday February 23 as the time for voting upon the Panama canal treaty.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Sunday was regarded as the crucial day in Senator Hanna's heroic battle for life. It began with assurances of quite an optimistic character but at 7:30 a sinking spell set in which created alarm. Oxygen, strychnia and stimulants played their part in the drama and hope alternated with grim fear all through the Sabbath day. Sunday night hope was abandoned, but the Senator was kept alive by the most heroic treatment.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The doctors at 8 o'clock this morning issued the following bulletin: "Since 3 a. m. Senator Hanna has slowly lost ground and is no longer able to take nourishment by the mouth. His temperature is not so high but his pulse has become more rapid and weaker and his respiration has increased in frequency. (Signed) "RINEY, OSLER, CARTER."

Washington, Feb. 15.—Shortly after 8 o'clock today Dr. Osler said that all hope of Senator Hanna's recovery has been abandoned but that he might outlive the day.

MARCUS ALONZO HANNA.

Few men ever achieved national fame so quickly as Senator Hanna. As a politician he was little known outside of Ohio until 1896, when as chairman of the Republican national committee he conducted the first McKinley presidential campaign.

A Report From Alexieff.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 15.—2:45 a. m.—A communication from Viceroy Alexieff, just received, confirms the report of the landing of 19,000 Japanese troops at Chemulpo. The Viceroy adds that reports have been received of attempts to cut the telegraph wires along the Chinese Eastern railway, and also to destroy one of the abutments of the Sungari bridge. These attempts, he adds, were immediately detected and decisive measures taken to guard the railway.

Communication by wireless telegraphy has been established with Chemulpo and Chifu by ships stationed between the two places.

All is quiet at Port Arthur. There is no news of the enemy's fleet and no confirmation of the reported appearance of Japanese ironclads off Tatung-Kar; but the indications are that the enemy's scouts are off Inhab.

The mobilization of troops is being successfully carried out. General Lazilevski, chief engineer, reports that the Port Arthur forts were not damaged during the bombardment.

The Russian Viceroy Isolated.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The correspondent of the Daily Express at Peking, in a cablegram dated February 12, reports that Viceroy Alexieff is practically isolated, direct communication between Port Arthur and Vladivostok being suspended. He adds that the railroad behind Port Arthur has been blown up and that six thousand Japanese troops have landed near Dalny.

The Daily Mail's Tokyo correspondent under date of February 12 says that the Japanese warship Amaki has captured the German steamer Yokohama which had a cargo, including dynamite, for Port Arthur.

The Nagasaki correspondent of the Daily Telegraph expresses the conviction that Russia is quite unable to hold the Liao-Tung peninsula and that Port Arthur is bound to fall even without an assault.

Czar Affected by Reverses.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Reports from St. Petersburg state that the disasters in the far east have prostrated the Czar. He sits apathetically, for hours, gazing into space. At intervals he weeps. His health is nearly broken down and the impression is gaining ground that the Russian naval reverses are affecting his brain.

Rumored 1800 Japanese Killed.

NAGASAKI, Feb. 15.—It is rumored that 1800 Japanese soldiers have been killed, presumably by the sinking of a transport. Disturbances are reported proceeding in Seoul.

Russians Sink Their Own Boats.

CHIFU, China, Feb. 15.—A reliable authority says that three Russian torpedo boats have been sunk by guns from the forts. They were mistaken for Japanese vessels.

Japs Sabred by Cossacks.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Daily Mail's Port Arthur correspondent under date of February 12 says:

"Official advice state that the Japanese landed 19,000 soldiers near Tatung-Kar with disastrous results, 400 being sabred by Cossacks. The remainder escaped to their ships. It is further stated that the Japanese landed at Doo Bay, where thirty of them were killed and the remainder retreated."

Defeated With Heavy Losses.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Daily Mail's Chifu correspondent under date of February 11, cables:

"According to official Port Arthur telegrams, the Japanese landed a force yesterday at Pigeon Bay, west of Port Arthur, and were then attacked by troops and by the batteries and were defeated."

CHIFU, Friday, Feb. 15.—It is reported that 12,000 Japanese landed at Doo Bay last Wednesday morning and that the Russians who engaged them in a hand to hand fight were driven back. It is also reported that Japanese troops have been landed forty miles farther west."

Japs Capture Six Steamers.

NAGASAKI, Feb. 15.—Six North China steamers were captured by a Russian naval captain on the 14th inst. The vessels are the Liza, Anna, Santa, Seaside, Arcton, and Loran. They carried 1,000 tons of cargo. The Japanese arrived here Sunday under convoy of a cruiser.

PLANS

To Realign the Streets

In Fire Swept District of Baltimore

STANDING RUINS DYNAMITED ON SUNDAY

MADE THE DISTRICT DANGEROUS

The Crowd of Sight Seers Was Not as Large as Was Expected, but Many Were There

Baltimore, Feb. 15.—Two plans have been formulated for realigning the streets in the burned sections. They are essentially the same, and provide for widening Baltimore, Hanover, Pratt and St. Paul streets and the straightening of Fayette street so as to provide a complete series of wide thoroughfares in the business section of the city, which will make Baltimore probably the best arranged in this respect in this country. The cost will be quite large as the property that must be condemned is the most valuable in the city.

Just one week ago the great fire, which destroyed 80 blocks and 2,500 houses in the business center of this city, broke out, and seven days thereafter it may be truthfully said that the city has shown a recuperative power, which must be accounted extraordinary.

The energy exhibited by Mayor McLean and the whole city government in bringing order out of chaos, and the spirit of resolution shown by the merchants, whose stores are now shapeless piles of debris, has justly excited admiration on all sides.

That the business community is sternly bent upon the rapid rebuilding of the devastated district has been made plainly manifest by the Emergency Committee which the Mayor has appointed as an Advisory Board to himself, and which, though without legal power, will practically exercise a potent jurisdiction in regulating the height and character of buildings, the opening of new streets, the creation of small parks on the ground heretofore occupied by houses, and in other matters related to the building of a thorough modern city. This committee will also decide on what streets rebuilding may begin at once, so that improvements may be put under way without delay.

Though only five week days have elapsed since the fire was checked the great majority of merchants who were burned out have found locations and resumed business. Furniture dealers, jewelers, clothiers and others have already received new stocks and displayed them on the shelves, counters and in windows, and every bank is doing business, although in restricted quarters, it is true, but the current of trade and financial transactions has begun to flow on as before.

Baltimore's greatest good fortune was in the exemption of its terminal facilities from the destroying blast, a circumstance which has enabled the Chamber of Commerce to notify the world that it is ready for business at the old stand, and which furnishes the guarantee that there would be no interruption to the vast exporting and importing business and the great coast line trade of this seaport.

The restoration of almost the whole of the city's street car line service is one of the agreeable surprises of the week, as the inhabitants feared that the period of waiting would be extended indefinitely.

Several hundred people came here Sunday from Philadelphia, Washington and other nearby points to view the ruins of the fire, though the crowd of sight seers was not nearly so large as was expected. The prohibition against excursion trains which was made public and the severity of the weather apparently had the effect of keeping away thousands who were anxious to come.

Many walls were also pulled down

JAPANESE ARE MAKING CONCERTED EFFORT TO INVEST PORT ARTHUR

All Dispatches Indicate Such is Now Plan of Operation.

Cable From Tien Tsin Reports Another Japanese Victory.

A Battle Now Raging on Banks of The Yalu River.

Japs Sabred by Cossacks--Russians by Mistake Sink Their Own Boats--Russian Viceroy Isolated--Mikado Captures More Ships--Grave Situation in Manchuria.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—A concentrated attempt by Japanese land and sea forces to invest Port Arthur, the Russian stronghold of the far east and their main basis of supply is imminent.

All dispatches from the seat of hostilities today unite in indicating that such is now the objective of Japanese war managers and news of the first shot in this attempt is momentarily expected.

The plans for the accomplishment of this feat which would mean an almost irreparable disaster to Russia and a glorious victory for Japanese arms, appears to have been long considered and carefully worked out.

Word from Chifu, China, has it that Admiral Togo, in charge of the Japanese naval forces in the Yellow Sea, is still in the neighborhood of Port Arthur and that he is but waiting for the landing of land forces to begin the bombardment of the city.

The Japanese troops, according to the same report, are being deflected in large numbers toward this point, and it is evident that here will come the next hard tussle of the campaign. Just what force the Mikado can muster for the fight is not known, but it is known that but 19,000 of the Japanese army have been landed at Chemulpo, whereas it was expected that the number that would be placed in that portion of the Korean peninsula would at least triple that force. It is but natural to believe that the remainder have been sent to Port Arthur. That the fight, when it comes, will be a terrific one, is universally known. The Russians have made of Port Arthur a second Gibraltar in strength, so that an attack from one side (either land or sea) without the aid from the other side of the city would be nothing less than sheer folly.

Again, there is a strong force of fighters in the stronghold, and the clash between these and the land forces will probably prove a hard fought and long continued one.

The modus operandi of the Japanese as pointed out in these dispatches several days ago, will, in all probability, be as follows:

A large force will be landed in the vicinity of Dalny, which is on a narrow strip of land of the Liao Tung Peninsula, not many miles back of Port Arthur. Using this place as a point of reserve, a portion of the army will move forward near enough to the point of attack to start a long distance onslaught. The guns will also be elevated so as to carry a portion of the shot and shell over the city itself and among the Russian vessels in the harbor. The aim is to force these vessels out into the open sea where Admiral Togo with a strong flotilla of sea fighters will await them, and the fight will thus be raging both to the front and rear of the city.

A report from Chifu today states that the attack from land will not prove as difficult as is generally believed. A party of Belgian engineers, who have just arrived there after travelling through Manchuria, state that there are several weak spots in the fortifications and that a number of batteries are incomplete.

This statement may or may not be true, but even if reliable these weak spots will hardly prove so fatal in the general excellence of the Russian fortifications as to make the attack by the Japanese anything like a mere formality.

There is the usual budget of rumors, many of them conflicting with others on hand this morning. The report that three vessels of the Russian Vladivostok fleet have been torpedoed and sunk off the island of Yezo, Japan, is persistently recurring. There is however, as yet, no confirmation of the report.

Another report coming from Chinese sources is that three torpedo boats of the Russian fleet at Port Arthur have been sunk by the shore batteries. According to the report the vessels were mistaken for Japanese fighters and were fired upon.

During the night attack on Port Arthur harbor last Monday the Japanese warships used the Russian light signals and thus eluded the watchfulness of the Russian outlook. It is probable that the land commander, should this report prove accurate, thought the vessels coming into the harbor were again Japanese playing the previous trick and unmasked his batteries on them with the dire results reported.

Battle on Yalu River Bank.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Paris correspondent of the Central News wires today that news from a Russian source states that a battle between the Russian and Japanese forces is now being fought on the northern bank of the Yalu river, where the Russian land forces are concentrated.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—A concerted attempt by the Japanese land and sea forces to invest Port Arthur, the Russian stronghold of the far east and

FOR LICKING COUNTY FARMERS.

Licking county at one time was the largest sheep and wool growing county in the United States. The depression in wool prices has depleted the flocks to such an extent that on many farms formerly devoted almost entirely to sheep, now not a sheep is to be found. Whether the flockmasters have done the wise thing in changing their methods is a debatable question. Many farms yet have a small flock, but there is not the interest shown in their care as formerly. The following method of a Michigan farmer reported in the American Agriculturist is evidently a very sensible and profitable plan of caring for the flock. He says: The winter quarters of the flock need not be elaborate. All that is necessary is a shed to protect them from driving storms and cutting winds. Of course it is the pride of the owner to have a well built barn, but this is not necessary unless one wants to raise early lambs. Until the lambs begin to come it is not advisable to keep the ewes in too warm quarters at night. A large part of the trouble with many flocks at lambing is caused by keeping the ewes too closely confined. Sheep allowed or forced to sleep in warm barns soon get delicate and cannot withstand cold weather nearly so well as if allowed to run at will. While I have a large, well constructed sheep barn for my breeding ewes, I do not compel the flock to make use of it. In fact, I am feeding my ewes a part of their hay ration out on the snow because I believe the sheep enjoy it better than if put in racks. Unless the ewes are somewhat run down from a long summer's hard work very little corn should be fed. In fact, I am not feeding a single kernel of corn to my breeding ewes, and shall not until along toward next fall. At present I am feeding a mixture of two-thirds oats and one-third bran with a handful of oil cake mixed in. I have never heard of any flockmaster overfeeding oats, but I know of hundreds who never feed a single kernel. Oats are the best food possible to supply the flock at all times of the year. As roughage nothing equals clover hay, although corn stover and oat straw are good for a change. I have fed roots and silage for a number of years, and would as soon have silage as roots. Exercise is very important. No matter how perfect the ration, if exercise is omitted the best results will not be obtained. Salt regularly, or better still keep salt before them all the time.

TYPHOID

Germ in Water From Lake--The Tunnel is a Failure.

Cleveland, Feb. 15.—City Bacteriologist Howard has found that water from the new tunnel is infested with typhoid germs. This tunnel cost $10,000,000 and 30 lives and was years in building. It extends five miles into the lake and proves a failure. There are 500 cases of typhoid in the city.

WEDDINGS.

SMITH MILLER.

Mr. Dillon W. Smith and Miss Rosa E. Miller were married Saturday evening February 13, in the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Lester S. Boyce officiating. A number of intimate friends were the invited guests of the occasion. The groom is the son of Mrs. Olive Smith of West Locust street, and the bride the daughter of Willis and Anna Miller of Wilkins Corners. Mr. Smith is employed in the B. & O. yards. The young couple will make their home at 233 Lawrence street.

MANUELS-KATES.

A very impressive wedding took place at the St. Francis de Sales church Monday morning at 10:30, the contracting parties being Miss Cora Kates, daughter of Mr. John Kates, and Mr. William Manuels, a well known employe of the Pennsylvania railroad at Carnegie, Pa. The couple were attended by Miss Genevieve Kates, a sister of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick after which a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home on North Fourth street. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Manuels will go to housekeeping in their new home at Carnegie.

REICHERT-FENCHEL.

Mr. John Reichert, a well known and popular young man of this city, and Miss Emma Fenchel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fenchel, and a most estimable young lady, were married on Saturday evening. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock, and was performed by the Rev. J. C. Schindel, past of St. Paul's Lutheran church, in the presence of quite a number of the friends at the home of the bride's parents, 314 Beech street. At the conclusion of the ceremony and after congratulations had been extended the happy couple, all sat down to a sumptuous wedding feast. Mr. and Mrs. Reichert were the recipients of a number of handsome and useful presents. They will make their home for the present with the parents of the bride. They have the best wishes of all their friends.

WELL KEPT SECRET.

Miss Irene Towell and Roy Weatherington, both of this city, were united in marriage September 15, by Rev. B. F. Patt, in the parsonage of Baptist church, Newark, O., and are just announcing the secret to their many friends. As they now have their new home in readiness they will be at home after February 17, at 577 Stanley avenue.—Columbus Press-Post.

STEVENS-SMITH.

The Mt. Vernon Banner gives the following notice of the Stevens-Smith wedding:

A handsome wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning at eight o'clock at St. Vincent de Paul's Catholic church, when Mr. Charles Stevens of Baltimore, Md., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Mary Frances Smith, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Smith of Hunts Station. High mass was celebrated by the Rev. L. W. Mulhane, assisted by Rev. O'Boylan of Newark.

The bride was handsomely gowned in a brown traveling suit. The attendants were Mr. E. A. Ritter of Newark and Miss Mary Murphy of Mt. Vernon. The church was filled with friends of the young people. Among the guests from out of town attending the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Smith of Hunts Station, Miss Grace and Miss Nellie Smith of Hunts Station, Miss Egan and Mr. John A. Prior of Newark.

After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the home of the bride's parents in Hunts Station where an elegant wedding breakfast was served. On Wednesday afternoon the young couple departed for Baltimore, Md., where they will make their future home, the groom being employed in that city as an electrician for the B. & O. railway company.

A SOFT WORD TURNETH AWAY WRATH

[Original.]

"It is a good many years ago," said a white haired, wrinkled faced man, "that I was an overseer on a southern plantation. The overseer of slaves has so often been pictured as a monster, especially in the character of Legree in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' that I have seldom admitted that I ever held such a position. The truth is, I was born and brought up in the south under the system of slavery, and to me it was a matter of course. The planter for whom I worked was as kindly a man as ever lived. Our method of punishment I think now and thought then was faulty, but we must remember that in those days flogging was common in the schools and in many families where parents whipped their children."

"One day a strong, lusty negro became insubordinate and refused to work. I ordered him flogged. After his punishment he said to me, 'I'll get even with you for this,' and the look he gave me at the same time convinced me that he would be as good as his word. Many overseers would have had him flogged again and again and then been ready to shoot him at the slightest provocation. On the contrary, I treated him more kindly than ever, though not letting him see that I attached any importance to words uttered under great humiliation."

"Pete—that was the negro's name—tried at various times to kill me, though indirectly. One night I found on turning down my bedclothes a poisonous snake between the sheets. It had doubtless been placed at the foot of the bed, but had not remained there. I suspected Pete of the work, and the next morning, coming upon him suddenly, he was unable to conceal his feelings at seeing me, knowing that his plan had failed. At another time he placed a huge stone over my door so that the door's opening would dislodge the stone. I was struck on the shoulder, which was dislocated, and I was laid up for weeks. Several other attempts were made to kill me in some such fashion, but none of them could I trace to Pete, though I felt fairly sure he had laid the traps. At last I grew so wary that I was always on the watch, and it would have been very difficult for him to catch me. However, after I had discovered a train of gunpowder laid under my bed I told Pete that I understood his purpose and upon another attempt would reveal his doings to his master, have him arrested, and I did not think it would take any court long to send him to prison for a good many years to come. I admit this long suffering was not usual to the overseers of the south. The truth is that when I had seen Pete flogged it occurred to me that if I were in his place I should probably seek revenge. Yet no revenge was open to the slave that would not react on him."

"Meanwhile Pete, who was married, had a son born to him, a bright, woolly headed little pickaninny, who would himself attempt Pete's revengeful heart. The child made a great change in his father in his relations to all save me. Though I didn't catch Pete in any overt acts toward me after this son's coming, I felt that he hated me more than ever. Besides, his master remarked to me that Pete had shown signs of sulkiness and insubordination toward him."

"Then the master was taken ill and died. When his estate was settled it was found to be insolvent. Most of the negroes were sold at auction, Pete and his wife and child among the number. When it was announced that he and his family were liable to separation Pete became the most desperate looking man I ever saw. He brooded till it seemed as if he would lose his reason. When the sale came on, the auctioneer, failing to get a bid for the three in one lot, began the sale of Pete individually, intending to follow with his wife and child, together if possible, if not, separately."

"Pete, having a bad reputation, did not attract bids and was about to be knocked down to a negro trader when I stepped in and began to bid for him. It was curious to note his expression when he saw what I was about. He apparently supposed that I was trying to buy him for the purpose of revenging myself upon him, and when he was knocked down to me gave me a look which meant plainly, 'Well, we shall see who lives longest.' But when I began to bid for his wife and child he was puzzled. He had evidently thought I had intended to separate them. I was obliged to bid high, but I secured the two, and then Pete gave me another look, this time of relief mingled with bewilderment."

"Pete," I said when the sale was over, "I have leased a small plantation, and you and your wife and family are my first hands to stock it."

"Not long after that the war came on, and I was obliged to leave my plantation to fight for—well, a system I didn't like. I placed everything in Pete's hands. The Yankees came down, and most of the hands left, but Pete and his wife and pickaninny stayed on. The fences were burned for campfires, but Pete rebuilt them. The outhouses were torn down, but Pete gathered the fragments and put them together again. Then came the end of the war, with the abolition of slavery. But Pete would have none of it. He worked for me till the day of his death under the old system and charged his wife and child not to leave me so long as I lived. The wife has gone to join him long ago, but the pickaninny—well, I educated the pickaninny, and he knows the value of freedom as his father never could have known it."

Accidents

Sprains and Bruises Burns and Scalds Cuts and Wounds

Accidents happen every day. Why not be prepared? A household supplied with need have no fear of the ordinary ailments and mishaps of mankind. Hamlin's Wizard Oil is a safeguard for children, a comfort to parents, a boon to the old folks. It will pay to keep this old-time, reliable family medicine always on hand in case of need.

Starbuck, Minn., April 13, 1901. I have been in bed for four weeks with a Sprained Back, caused by too heavy lifting. I have tried almost everything to cure it. Seeing what Hamlin's Wizard Oil had done for others I tried a bottle and in two days I was able to work.

JOHN SMITH. Santa Barbara, Cal. My child fell from a high chair upon a hot stove and burned its forehead and side of face severely. It suffered intensely for three days, when we commenced using Hamlin's Wizard Oil. The pain was relieved in twenty minutes and the burns healed in about five days.

There is only one Wizard Oil—Hamlin's—name blown in the bottle. Signature "Hamlin Bros." on wrapper. Take no substitute. 50c. and $1.00.

For a Cold

Take a small teaspoonful of Hinkley's Bone Liniment in half a tea cup of sweetened hot water just before retiring; bathe the chest freely with the Liniment at the same time. Repeat the treatment morning and evening until cured. One dose generally effects a cure, as this wonderful medicine acts like magic.

"Here you have my good word for Hinkley's Bone Liniment. I know its virtues. I have experienced its benefits and am familiar with its history. It was in use by my father before me and was his sovereign remedy for colds and cramps, for bruises and aches, and for the many pains that seem certain to reach us all at one time or another, and Hinkley's Bone Liniment seems about as certain to relieve as we are certain to get the pains."—Wm. B. Baum, Ex-Mayor of Saginaw, Mich.

It is a great comfort to be able to conquer our own ailments and thus avoid running for the doctor. Hinkley's Bone Liniment is a most reliable remedy for everything from a sprain to the severe agony of rheumatism. Applied externally it goes to the very bone and drives away the pain; taken internally it acts like magic in stilling pain and effecting a quick cure. Only 25 cents a bottle and every bottle is a genuine "family medicine chest." Can you be without a bottle? The druggist has it or can quickly get it, so insist on having Hinkley's Bone Liniment, the cure for every pain.

Peter Sachs Very Ill.

The venerable father of the Sachs Brothers, Mr. Peter Sachs, Sr., who has been suffering with acute bladder trouble is reported on a state of coma at his residence, 64 Poplar avenue. There is but little hope for his recovery.

David R. Jones' Condition.

Mr. David R. Jones, 23 Poplar avenue, is dangerously ill with lung trouble. The physicians attendant upon him give no hope. Mr. Jones was the sufferer with the old 76th O. V. I. and is a member of the Newark Veteran drum corps.

In United States Navy.

Gus Atherton, a former member of Co. G, Fourth O. N. G., of this city, enlisted for service in the U. S. navy at the recruiting office in the court house last Friday, and left with the recruiting party Saturday night for Norfolk, Va.

Suffering With Grip.

An epidemic of grip seems to have struck the city hall. Solicitor Phil B. Smythe is confined to his home, Mayor A. J. Crilly is at his desk, but far from well, and City Auditor Maurath who was ill nearly all of last week is just recovering.

At the Naval Academy.

Mr. Carl T. Osborn, the Licking county cadet at the Annapolis Naval Academy, passed his last examination satisfactorily, and had a good margin to spare on the next examination. He also excelled as a marksman in the gun practice.

The Hotel Bolton.

The Hotel Bolton is undergoing a thorough cleaning up, and a number of improvements for the better are being made. The ceiling and wood work in the office, restaurant, sample room and dining room have been painted, and all the rooms are being papered in first class style. When the improvements have been completed this hotel will present an inviting appearance.

Meeting of Presbytery.

Rev. L. S. Boyce, clerk of the Zanesville Presbytery, has prepared a petition asking for a meeting of the Presbytery to receive Rev. Thomas A. Cosgrove into membership, and install him pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Newark. The meeting will be held in the Second church, Tuesday evening, March 1, and both functions will be performed at the same service.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

Another red letter day will be observed at the regular meeting of the local union of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, under the supervision of Mrs. Lois A. Maxwell, superintendent of that department, when the following program, memorial of Miss Frances Willard's death, will be carried out: Hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee;" Scripture lesson, Psalm 145, by the superintendent; prayer, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," Mrs. Harry Schoonover; poem, "In Memoriam," Mrs. Harrington; reading, "God's Way," Mrs. Gilbey; solo, Miss Jessie Taylor; reading, Mrs. Hillier, "A Talk on the Temple;" by Mrs. Cole; address, "Frances Willard," Teacher and Leader, by the president, Mrs. Sisson.

CONVERSION

Of a Woman Leads Her to Right a Wrong Practiced on a Man 20 Years Ago.

Wooster, O., Feb. 15.—Archibald Fisher, an aged resident of Doylestown, Wayne county, has secured what he considers a valentine out of the ordinary. The following simple record taken from the books of the recorder of the county brought out the story which follows: "Frank George and wife to Archibald Fisher, two lots in Doylestown, $400."

The record is the closing chapter of a story of 20 years ago, when Mr. Fisher was accused of making improper proposals to Mrs. George. He was confronted by the injured husband and wife, and although protesting his innocence, finally paid George and his wife $200 to quiet the matter.

Fisher had hoped that the payment of the money would not get out, but it did, and created a scandal. The church to which he belonged finally took up the matter and the church trial which followed did not lessen the scandal, and for 20 years Mr. Fisher has lived under a shadow.

A few days ago, Mrs. George, who now lives at Akron, O., came to Doylestown, and sought an interview with Mr. Fisher. In the presence of his son and daughter, and another, Mrs. George told how she had wronged Mr. Fisher. Mrs. George stated that she had been converted at a revival meeting and was unable to get the peace of mind she desired until she had Mr. Fisher's forgiveness.

Mrs. George, so it is alleged, offered to turn over two lots she owned in the village as reparation. Fisher readily assented. Mrs. George left, saying that she felt much better after adjusting the matter. The deed came in a day or two. Fisher, who is now an old man, says he is pleased at his vindication, but regrets that the proof of his innocence did not come before the death of his wife, who, however, never doubted his innocence.

HIGH PRICED LAND.

Some record-breaking sales of Illinois farms have been made recently. A press dispatch from Princeton, Ill., says: One 50-acre tract near this city brought $200 an acre, and there are a number of other farms that are being held at the same figure.

Gardner Thompson, near Alto, in Lee county, sold 20 acres at the rate of $125 per acre. Thompson immediately purchased another farm of 250 acres near Alto at the rate of $150 per acre.

A farm of 10 acres near Rockville was sold for a consideration of $150 per acre. Two miles west of Malta in DeKalb county, a farm of 168 acres sold at auction and brought $102.50 per acre. A large number of Illinois farmers are selling their high-priced land and are buying in other states, some going to Missouri, Iowa, and the north-west and others going south and into Virginia, and the latter state being very attractive.

All prudent men who believe that nations, like individuals, should attend strictly to their own business have reason to regret that a statesman like Richard Olney is not at the head of the state department in order that the United States may maintain a strict neutrality in the Russo-Japanese war.

British authorities continue to assert that England and the United States have an entangling alliance of some kind in the far east, and Mr. Hay persists in the statement that America is bound for the "promotion of the common good." It used to be considered uncommonly good for the United States to keep out of all such mixups.

The Czar and his entire court have held a public prayer meeting, and the Mikado has been conspicuously attentive to his ancestor worship. Perfectly correct, perhaps, but it is singular how religious all rulers become when they have made up their minds to shed an ocean of blood. There is no record that they prayed over The Hague peace conference.

The first result of the war in the far east is that Russia's naval power in the Yellow Sea has been virtually destroyed with no hope of its being renewed in time to strengthen the Czar's line of defenses in that important part of the field of operations so as to enable him to protect his vital interests there from the determined assaults of his plucky and energetic adversary. It begins to appear to be certain that the Czar was depending too much upon the traditional diplomatic policy of his empire to delay indefinitely the opening of hostilities, without taking into account that Japan's preparations for actual war were far in advance of his own.

The Japs have proved the fighting qualities of the torpedo boat in a manner that comes as an enlightenment to the other nations having big navies. The Mikado's enterprising fighters are the real pioneers in developing their effectiveness in a conflict with the modern armored battleship. This country accomplished very little with them in the Spanish war and it turns out that our navy has comparatively few of this class of warships. But we shall now, no doubt, multiply them as fast as our facilities will permit. It is said that our "society" naval officers at Washington have condemned the torpedo boat, and that another reason why more of them have not been built is that they do not afford as much profit to the builders as is possible in the case of big ships.

Those Common Pleas Judges who have been crazy to get on the bench at a salary of $2,500 a year and now want more should resign and return to the practice of the law. They would then have an opportunity to ascertain just how much they are worth. —Columbus Town Topics.

JOHN R. McLEAN
Not a Candidate for District Delegate
Nor Delegate-at-Large to the National Convention.

Cincinnati, Feb. 15.—The following correspondence was made public yesterday by Mr. John E. Bruce:
Cincinnati, O., Feb. 8, 1904.
Hon. John R. McLean, Cincinnati Enquirer—My Dear Mr. McLean: May I, without seeming to be officious, and without inviting personal confidences, to which I am not entitled, inquire as to your wishes and purposes touching Democratic politics in Ohio and Hamilton county this year? I am not alone in the desire to know. As the time closely approaches for the active work of the Presidential year, your friends, and no doubt, your enemies as well, would like to be able to intelligently take an account of elect and reckon on the forces at their command. I think I find a general disposition in the Democratic party hereabout to ignore all past differences and unite on common ground, and on issues which are now alive. There is an encouraging opportunity and general good feeling. An authoritative statement from you as to your position toward the harmony movement and your intentions would do much to clear the atmosphere and enable the Democrats to proceed understandingly. Permit me in the kindest of spirit to say that your friends have been sufficiently loyal to you in the past to have earned a frank expression from you now, especially as newspaper reports as to your attitude have been conflicting and unsatisfying. Hence these questions:

Will you take part, locally and at the state convention, in framing the Presidential campaign?

Will you be a candidate for delegate at large to the Democratic National convention or a candidate from your own congressional district?

And for myself, and for many others who prompt me to make these inquiries, I invite any further expression on the political situation you may be disposed to make. Yours truly,
JOHN E. BRUCE.

McLean's Answer.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11, 1904.
Hon. J. E. Bruce, Room 4, Masonic Building, Cincinnati, Ohio—Dear Mr. Bruce: It gives me great pleasure to answer without reserve the questions you ask, though I don't believe that any number of people care to know my wishes as to the politics of Ohio and Hamilton county.

I don't wish any of my friends to be deceived as to the position I may take. I believe with you that there is a disposition for harmony and a great opportunity for the Democrats.

My work will be in the ranks as a private, asking for nothing and aspiring to nothing. I shall not be a candidate directly or indirectly, either for delegate at large or district delegate to the Democratic National convention. I have no desire to be a delegate. Twice the state conventions have sent me as a delegate at large to the national council of the party, so I am content. Had I a claim to further party favor I would gladly yield it to some other Democrat. There should be a fair distribution of honors.

I am not a candidate myself and I have no candidate.

I shall go to St. Louis as a member of the Democratic National committee, which will have to do with the preparations for an organization of the national convention. In that official capacity and as a individual Democrat I shall do all I can for the general cause. Very sincerely,
JOHN R. McLEAN.

L. H. Martin vs. H. J. Harter, passed on account of sickness of material witness for plaintiff Black; Swartz.

Ohio ex rel Dorothy E. Miller vs. Fred Rickus, a paternity case; on trial to court and jury this afternoon Smyth & Smyth. Horner; James.

A Damage Suit.

The damage suit filed against the Commissioners by Mary A. Chilcote was briefly noted in Saturday's Advocate. The plaintiff has commenced suit against the names of the Board of County Commissioners of Licking county. She alleges that the commissioners are charged with the duty of maintaining the entrances and exits to and from the court house in safe and proper condition, that the commissioners caused to be constructed a small storm door on the west side of the court house, that the construction of the storm doors made the entrance to the court house dark and gloomy and that the commissioners were negligent in not keeping the entrance lighted; that plaintiff started to leave the court house, after paying her taxes, on the 3d of January, 1903, and fell striking her forehead against the sharp edge of the stone steps, spraining her ankle and permanently injuring her. That said injury was caused by the entrance leading to the corridor of the court house being insufficiently lighted, and it is in that regard that she charges the commissioners with being guilty of negligence. She asks $5,000 damages.

Suit for Damages.

Melvin D. Karicofe, by his attorney, Wayne Collier, has commenced suit in the Common Pleas Court against the Newark Natural Gas and Fuel company for $500 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by the explosion of gas in the building occupied by B. M. East's drug store. The plaintiff alleges that his clothing was destroyed, and that he was severely burned, cut and bruised about the face and hands to his damage in the sum of $5000, for which he asks judgment.

MACHINE GUN DETACHMENT, BRITISH ARMY.

This gun illustrates the machine or rapid-fire gun detachment which the British military authorities are now sending out for the purpose of holding in check and natives in the African possessions. The British have recently had to meet numerous insurrections in Somaliland and other parts of the Dark Continent, and inasmuch as the blacks have a superstitious fear of the automatic guns which fire hundreds of shots per minute it has been determined to use these weapons extensively in preserving order in this part of the world.

Rheumatism

"THE KING OF PAIN."

Those who have ever felt its keen, cutting pains, or witnessed the intense suffering of others, know that Rheumatism is torture, and that it is rightly called "The King of Pain."

All do not suffer alike. Some are suddenly seized with the most excruciating pains, and it seems every muscle and joint in the body was being torn asunder. Others feel only occasional slight pains for weeks or months, when a sudden change in the weather or exposure to damp, chilly winds or night air brings on a fierce attack, lasting for days perhaps, and leaving the patient with a weakened constitution or crippled and deformed for all time.

An acid, polluted condition of the blood is the cause of every form and variety of Rheumatism, Muscular, Articular, Acute, Chronic, Inflammatory and Sciatic, and the blood must be purged and purified before there is an end to your aches and pains. External applications, the use of liniments and plasters, do much toward temporary relief, but such treatment does not reach the real cause or cleanse the diseased blood; but S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers and tonics, does cure Rheumatism by antidoting and neutralizing the poisonous acids and building up the weak and sluggish blood. It is safe and reliable in all forms of Rheumatism. It makes the old acid blood rich, and the pain-tortured muscles and joints are relieved, the shattered nerves are made strong, and the entire system is invigorated and toned up by the use of this great vegetable remedy.

If you have Rheumatism, write us, and our physicians will furnish without charge any information desired, and we will mail free our book on Rheumatism.

PEN PICTURE OF BALTIMORE'S FIRE

Julian Hawthorne's Graphic Portrayal of the Ruins.

A WORLD MINUS FORM AND REASON

Viewing the Devastation, One Can Only Imagine, He Says, That the Angel of Destiny Recognized a Spot Named in His Book of Fate. Cold and Irredeemable Desolation Prevailing Characteristic of the Scene.

Baltimore's devastation wrought by its great fire is graphically pictured by Julian Hawthorne as follows in the New York American:

"After viewing the mounded desolation of what was Baltimore's business quarter and of that region which was inhabited by the unknown hordes of the poorer classes one imagines that the angel of destiny in his journeyings to and fro over the earth paused there the other Sunday morning and recognized the spot named in his book of fate for an especial and memorable visitation. 'With his irrevocable finger he marked out the area of the catastrophe. It was a line sharply drawn. On this side should be immunity, on that chaos and destruction. Here and there in the midst of crumbled ruin should be left a structure almost unscathed. But in the main the sweep of the fiery besom should be thorough. Nothing should be lacking to the significance of the disaster.

"It was not life that the angel sought on this occasion to destroy, but that for which so much of our life is eagerly expended—wealth and the means of wealth, the property which we buy so dear and whose safety we hedge about with such stringent laws and precautions. These huge buildings, so costly and well guarded, built to resist and defy all perils, should be wiped out as snow vanishes before the southern winds and rains. All that man labors and wastes himself to gain should be taken away, but man himself should be left to contemplate and moralize over the loss, and, perhaps—for one inevitably ascribes a meaning to these vast calamities—to consider whether, after all, the accumulations and pre-occupations of civilization are the only or the most worthy object of man's pursuit, whether it may not be worth our while to give more heed hereafter to those riches which earthly agencies cannot sweep away in a night. Such, one imagines, may have been the thought in the mind of the angel as he paused that Sunday morning over beautiful and prosperous Baltimore.

"Indeed, it is difficult to avoid the apocalyptic and elegiac tone in speaking of this event. The writing on these walls is scored deep and spread wide. One can almost hear the voice of warning sounding in the smoke laden air. It seems to say to those who have lost what they thought their all, 'Is this your all indeed?' In a little while we and our possessions must have passed away at any rate. The earthly works of man are foreordained to vanish. Can he not gather something that will survive these treasures of a day? Why love so much what forsakes him so lightly?

"When, in the early dawn, I looked from my window toward the east there was a ruddy glow upon the sky which I at first mistook for the reflection of the still burning city. But it was only the daily miracle. Once more had 'God made himself an awful rose of dawn.' And when, leaving the train and hastening up Charles street, I had my first glimpse of the city itself, the quiet houses and the wide, clean, almost deserted streets suggested no calamity. The few shops and public buildings in this region were closed. I seemed to have come upon a community still peacefully asleep. Yet I did not need to ask my way, for over yonder, beyond the tall and massive shaft of the Washington column, there was a low haze of heavy smoke, clinging near the ground, as if trying to conceal the havoc of which it was the sign. And as I passed the monument and descended the hill I saw the ragged borders of the blighted area standing out, bleached, blackened and irregular, against the whitish mist farther down, and the passing of squads of militiamen and the gathering of the police on corners and the formation of throngs of anxious and solemn faced citizens along the lines of the forbidden space apprised me that I had reached the scene which I had come to behold."

After Mr. Hawthorne had procured his pass to step inside the fire lines he continues his story thus:

"Looking up and down what had been streets and across the heaps of rubbish that had been hives of industry and through the great gaps in the still standing fragments of the walls of some of them, I perceived that I had broken into a comparative solitude. Here and there on a corner, or what might have been a corner (though boulevards of all kinds were to a great extent obliterated), a little group of police officers and firemen huddled about some embers raked together, warning their fingers, chilled by the icy breeze.

"I passed two photographers debating upon the merits of a view of the ruins of the Farmers and Merchants' bank on what used to be Exchange place, a striking mass of tottering wreckage of red stone, with traces of handsome architectural features. 'This is a dry town, sir,' one said, turning to me with his dry American grin. So the renowned American joke still survived, but upon the whole, there was a marked absence of hilarity among the va-travellers of the scene? I should say a cold and irredeemable desolation. Nothing was visible that was not ruin—burnt out to mere line and chuders. Heaps of barren brick; rugged mounds of scorched, splintered and calcined stone; a chevron of frise of contorted steel girders and gigantic beams of iron; an inextricable tangle of wires of all sizes; the low ramparts of walls which had been lofty, charred with the breath and bitten by the tooth of the intolerable flame; now and then the entire facade of a great building, teetering in air, destitute of support, which a gust of wind might blow over; isolated pinacles of masonry, suit more threatening, all that was left of some massive four square structure.

"In one place a towering edifice over fifteen stories in height, with all four walls standing, but as hollow and empty as a house of cards, and scorched and defaced with smoke; telegraph posts which had become mere crooked sticks of charcoal; pillars of iron which had supported trolley wires, corroded by fire as by the erosion of centuries; the tracks of the street railways imbedded in the pavement, visible here and there through the crowding rubbish; a wilderness, an emptiness, a labyrinth of defaced nothings.

"Nothing was in sight in this region which the other Sunday morning had been an array of commercial palaces worth a hundred millions of money but agglomerations of desolation for which no man would have given a cent! And the ruins did not look recent; you would have said that they might have stood there for a hundred years. The dust of antiquity seemed already to have fallen upon them.

"In spite of the omnipresent thin pall of smoke and the strange, sickish smell of burning that pervaded the atmosphere and the flickering tongues of fire which rose from some of the brick heaps and the intense, white hot places which glowed in the interior of some of the ruins, all appeared so dead that you might have fancied you were contemplating the remains of Nineveh or Babylon.

"Yet there was a profound living interest in these rubbish heaps. I came upon a dreary looking personage standing in front of one of them, as if fascinated to the spot. I had glanced at a similar heap on the opposite side of the street, and he volunteered the name of the merchant who had occupied it as a chemical warehouse.

"Then you were acquainted down here? I asked him. That was my place, was his reply, pointing to the forlorn brick pile. 'I'm watching my safe,' he added, and with difficulty I distinguished the blackened corner of an iron box protruding from the jumble. 'I guess it's all right.' I hope it was.

"Here and there were objects recognizable as letter boxes. One of them had a hole burned through it. The contents of all were doubtless ashes. Noticeable, too, were the business signs that remained legible on the walls of some of the buildings. They still stoutly announced the presence of what had ceased to exist, and, together with some of the isolated facades which partly screened the emptiness behind them, they had the air of being absurdly unconscious of the calamity which had befallen.

"Squads of workmen in blouses and overalls were trooping about in the lonely vistas or laboring with pickaxes at the ruins. Now and then the ear was startled by a deep explosion, when some dangerous standing pile was blown down. In some of the lonely places there would sound out a dry, rattling noise, as a sheet of tin roofing, hanging by a shred, shook in the breeze. For the most part the brick walls as they came down had scattered in all directions, but not a few had fallen as they stood, still adherent, and lay in a serried mass.

"Over some of the smoking ruins fountains of water were gushing out, freezing as they fell, where a water pipe had broken or been burned through. It was a world without form and without reason, vacant of all save dust and ashes. But I wandered about fascinated for hours perhaps, turning this way and that at random. In one place I saw the sign of somebody's Turkish bath—'never closed.' There was no longer any Turkish bath there. But it must have been not enough on Sunday night!

"At last I unexpectedly found myself on the wharf, with the smooth, cold tide of the river lapping in between the piers, and tugboats plying indolently in and out. I had reached the limit of the fire on this side. I strolled along Pratt street, with the wharves on my left and the smoldering ruins on my right. On one block there was a long wooden shed, which, though facing the fury of the fire at a distance of not more than twenty yards, had escaped with scarce a blistering of its dingy clapboards. It could have been bought at any time for a few score dollars, and it survived the palaces of the millionaires!

"I had no sooner made this observation than I was arrested by a pygmy portent, speaking with a strong Dutch accent, probably an altar in real life. 'Hi, cap'n,' said he, 'you out o' bounds! You got out o' here!' I explained and remonstrated, but in vain. 'Now, don't you make no trouble! And down came the bayonet. The neighboring police officers, on being appealed to, were kindly and sympathetic, but professed impotence to help. I was launched from this snifter of heaven and could not get back without a her pass.

"I then without myself that I had, there was to be, a my head, meditating upon the picture of the angel of destiny and the luckless Baltimore all that glansy wound in her side.

THE LOYALTY OF JAPAN

Through It She Will Win, Says Sir Edwin Arnold.

MIGHTIEST OF ALL HER FORCES.

It Will Bring Her, He Says, In Honor and Triumph Out of All Dangers. Maneuvers of Soldiers of Japan Graphically Pictured—Remarkable Nerve of Artilleryman With a Crushed Foot.

Although no value could possibly attach to any opinion of mine upon technical military problems, at the present juncture I venture to recall the incident and pictures of a memorable day which I passed in the company of his imperial majesty the emperor of Japan, with his military staff and some 35,000 troops detailed for the annual maneuvers, says Sir Edwin Arnold in the Chicago Tribune. Several years have gone by since then, but the impressions left are vivid in my mind and may perchance have points of novelty and even information. I had received the honor of a personal invitation to witness these maneuvers, and my acquaintances among the military officers, like true Japanese gentlemen, spared nothing for the comfort and pleasure of even their least important guest. Never can I forget the glory of that early dawn, along the ridge of the southern hills, which sweep through all the length of coast from Kamakura and lovely Enoshima, over the foot of splendid and stately Fujiyama to Gotemba, Oiso and Nara itself. We were advancing up the steep paths, many thousand strong—horse, foot and artillery, but chiefly foot—to hold the long ridge against some detested enemy deploying in the vast flats to the eastward and southward. Alas, it is not good that war should ever look so fair! The morning air seemed almost to intoxicate the neat, bright, sturdy young soldiers tramping with laughter or low singing through the gay thickets or lying as close as a clutch of brown partridges behind the stems of matsu and bamboo tussocks. Boys out of school could not have taken more pleasure in the implements of their play field than did these young brown faced peasants in the fieldpieces which they made to dance and rattle behind the rope traces, in their clean, shining weapons and sober equipments.

But, first of all facts, there, right ahead of us, in the center of the position, not far away, was a breakfast table roughly improvised out of four ammunition boxes and over these thrown a richly embroidered tablecloth of silk purple in color, with golden kiku—the imperial chrysanthemum—worked by hand upon it, the only touch of anything like luxury visible throughout the vast martial display. Though the sun was yet hardly high enough, to touch the snow upon Fujiyama with saffron and rose, his imperial majesty was there drinking tea from a small silver cup.

The young sovereign was held, as one might easily see, in supreme reverence by all around, but a reverence which had in it passionate and unchanging affection as well as custom. In Japan national loyalty has not as yet divided itself from the actual worship given to the dynasty whose origin loses itself, in the thoughts of forty-five millions of homogeneous people, amid the mysteries of the invisible. Time was, of course—and only a few years ago—when such a proximity as ours to that divinely descended personage would have been impossible. Incredible, madly presumptuous. Three times afterward even I myself had the privilege of respectfully watching from near at hand the dark, serious, unchanging, introspective countenance of him upon whom is focused the absolute devotion of the Japanese people in a manner not only unparalleled elsewhere, but hardly even comprehended. It is this traditional sentiment of the wonderful nation which is the mightiest of all her forces and which will bring her in honor and triumph out of all dangers.

I shall not attempt to dwell upon what I have seen and heard personally of his imperial majesty. Other pens may dare to make him into paragraphs. Whenever I saw that silent potentate I was set thinking of the ancient legends and of the sun goddess and of Avalokitesvara. Now that I can only recollect, it is still with something like awe as well as with profound respect and sympathy that I recall the steadfast brows and the stern, sad lips of his imperial majesty Mutsuhito, whose order of the Rising Sun I have the honor to bear and of whom I am the humble servant and well wisher, believing, as I do, that in his august hands Providence has placed the duty and the glory of linking forever together the east and the west in a union which once appeared impossible.

Now for that army! I said I would not presume to offer any opinion on its military merits, and the strong confidence which I place in its valor and ultimate victory is but the indelible impression of what seemed to me an almost perfect fighting force. The dark clad masses covering those azalea slopes moved with one mind and sought the success of the maneuvers as if each soldier had been himself the emperor, or at least a general of brigade. One of the artillerymen working at a twelve pounder in a pit dugged amid the lilac roots had his foot crushed by the trail of the gun. He never desisted from his duty till the blood ran from his injury drew his officers' attention to it, and even then he submitted with reluctance to the order for an ambulance.

Before we entered the rice fields, but this was before the day the emperor had been broken and beaten, and it was funny to see them retreating over the rice grounds. Imagine thousands of ants hurrying along the lines drawn between the green and black squares of a chessboard, and you may know exactly what they look like, these enemies—trotting for their lives away along the tiny edges dividing the patches of wet rice. And when we turned back home, some of the troops for a long march, I noticed how the infantrymen whipped off their service footgear and tied on the "waraji" sandals made of string, price 3 farthings a pair, in which they could go twenty or thirty miles.

That night many of them did not sleep fifteen "ri" from the field of action, while 3,000 of us civilians and loafers had supper round the emperor's table in the ancient hall at Nara, its roof sustained by twelve immense pillars made of striped suji trunks. It was a stupendous meal, his majesty condescending to drink a cup of sake at the far side of the high table, close to one of the white shining shafts of those cryptomeria trunks which were at once so splendid and so simple. The gay and happy city, through the main street of which we had returned in joyous tumult, was from end to end all red and white with the national flags and lanterns. And since that day I for one have never feared that the flag of the rising sun will ever be disgraced.

UNION CARD FOR LOVERS.

Woman Agent Tells Girls to Put Labor Movement Before Cupid.

Love should bear the union label or there should be no courtship, according to the ideas of Miss Angelina Mauro, business agent of the Garment Workers' union in St. Louis, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Miss Mauro said the other day that every union girl should pay more attention to the question of unions and union labor. To this end nonunion suitors should not be considered, and none who wished to pay his respects to a union girl should be encouraged till he produced his union card.

Miss Mauro was speaking at the labor mass meeting at Druids' hall in St. Louis.

"A union girl should not even speak to a nonunion man," said she. "If all union girls would find out first whether a man belonged to the union before they entertained him and, if he didn't, refused to recognize him, then the men wouldn't be long in joining the union."

"Men who work at trades or professions where there are no unions should be encouraged by the girls to patronize union houses and buy only union goods. Even when a man didn't belong to any union organization he could in that way show he was a union man at heart. Where there is a possibility of organizing a union the girls ought to insist that their sweethearts or men friends organize one."

CLASSICS CALLED IMMORAL.

Preacher Says Study of Homer and Virgil Stains the Language.

Homer's epics and the "Æneid" of Virgil were denounced the other day by Dr. J. A. Leavitt of Ewing college when he addressed the Baptist Ministers' association at the Masonic temple in Chicago. In the story of the siege of Troy he saw nothing more than "the story of a man running away with another man's wife." He admitted that there was something heroic in the wandering of Ulysses, but he could find nothing to admire in the hero's loiterings on an island with Calypso.

"All these pagan classics, notwithstanding their popularity, leave their stain on the purity of our literature," declared Dr. Leavitt. "They should be succeeded in our colleges and schools by the more wholesome and elevating literature of the Bible. Our land is being flooded with paganism and pagan works. Our poetry has become as sensuous as that of the old Greeks and Romans."

ASSOCIATE OF TRAMPS.

Why Member of Rich Cleveland Family Renounced Society.

George Hoyt of Cleveland, O., aged thirty-two, a member of a cultured and wealthy family and a college graduate, has renounced society and, unknown to his parents, become an associate of tramps and loafers in the Michigan street lodging house district of Cleveland, says the Chicago Record-Herald. When arrested the other day he said:

"I've a good home, but I've grown tired of the society of people who think of nothing but clothes. These people in society bore themselves and each other with talk of books and music and think they are cultured. In the downtown streets one finds people in the rough, people who have seen things and who really live. Whose business is it if I care for them?"

A Pitiful Case.

[There are no oaths or explosives in the Japanese language. The nearest approach to one is to call a man a "bastard."]

We who are reared in a Christian country, with plenty of oaths for the humblest man.

Ever have you ever passed to consider the pitiful case of Japan?

They tread on a tick and perforce are sorry.

They fall in a ditch, and there's naught to say.

A waiter spills soup on their Sunday garments.

And a barber, instead of "thank" you, says "pardon" with a loud bawling cry.

When they are drinking the paper beer, a man has to wait a long time.

Their favorite team don't score.

As I think, through it all must sit in bed.

Next of language to give them cause, I could weep for years with the justice of it.

Use it, I repeat.

JNO. B. PARKER

FORMER LICKING CO. TEACHER,
DIES IN FAR WEST.

Never Tasted Tobacco or Whiskey or Used a Profane Word—He Was Pomona's First Postmaster.

The Los Angeles, Cal., Times of Feb. 6 contains the following notice of the death of John B. Parker, an old time resident of Licking county, who for nearly 60 years was a constant reader of the Advocate. Mr. Parker taught school in the vicinity of Newark before going to the Pacific coast. The Times says:

John Brown Parker, a pioneer of Los Angeles county, and one of the first American settlers in the Pomona Valley, died in this city early on the morning of February 5, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. B. F. Thomas, No. 1226 East Eighth street. Mr. Parker was 86 years old at the time of his death, and was a man of splendid physique, possessed of fine health up to his last illness which was brief. He occupied the first house erected on the site of the present city of Pomona, where he settled in 1871—an old adobe that is said to be still standing on the outskirts of the city. He was the first postmaster of Pomona, and its first justice of the peace.

Deceased was born in the county of Downs, Northern Ireland, May 29, 1818. In 1830 he migrated to Rochester, N. Y., and later moved to Zanesville, O., where he has engaged in mercantile pursuits for many years. In that state in 1845 he married Mary Catherine Perry, who passed away in this city in 1886.

Mr. Parker moved to the present site of Pomona in 1874, and thence to Los Angeles in 1885, where he has since resided. Like most of the natives of the North of Ireland, he was a staunch and active Protestant, and organized and long superintended the first Sunday school in Pomona. He was a member of the First Christian church of this city.

Mr. Parker became the father of a family of ten. The surviving children are Mrs. Anna Haun of Chicago, O., and Dr. W. C. Parker, J. H. Parker, Mrs. George J. Dalton, Perry B. Parker, Frank M. Parker and Mrs. R. F. Thomas of this city.

Mr. Parker was distinguished among his friends as a man who never tasted tobacco nor whisky nor used a profane word in his life.

PETER CRAWMER

Toboso, O., Feb. 11.—Mr. Peter Crammer, one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens, died at his home, two miles south of this place Friday morning, after a lingering illness. He leaves a wife and four children. Besides a large stock of real estate, he had a large number of relatives and friends who were here Saturday afternoon.

Top church near Pleasant Valley. Interment at that place. Mr. Crammer was at the time of his death 80 years and two days.

ISAAC HAINES.

Isaac Haines, aged 67 years, died at his home near Granville Saturday evening of cancer of the stomach. The deceased leaves five daughters and two sons. The funeral will be held from Licking church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

MISS DULEY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Miss Annie Duley took place from St. Francis de Sales church Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The deceased was a noble Christian woman and her death is sincerely mourned.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, It has pleased Divine Providence to call to his eternal rest our beloved brother, John Bierley, and Whereas, Seldom in our lives as an organization are we called upon to chronicle the death of one so universally beloved and esteemed as our late lamented brother, and, Whereas, The members of Local Union, No. 161 in conjunction with the sorrowing family, relatives and friends mourn his loss, therefore be it

Resolved, That we tender to their sincere and heartfelt sympathy in this, their hour of sorrow and bereavement; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy be sent to the family, and a copy be sent to our official journal for publication.

JAMES T. SHAW,
HERBERT FRENIER,
HARRY NUTTER,
Committee.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the tragic death of our little son, Asker Lee, and also to the Swisher employes and the school, for the beautiful flowers; also the choir for their beautiful songs. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gundy and family.

Feeble Old People

For All Such People in Newark We Guarantee Vinol Will Create Health, Strength and Vitality or Return Money.

Hundreds of old people right here in Newark need just such a strength maker and body builder as our delicious cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, and we simply cannot understand why they will continue to drag out a half-dead and halting existence, when a generous Vinol will infuse new life, increase every organ in the body, stop the natural decline and make them feel a vigorous and strong. If you want to know how an old person can be made a man or woman, may be made a cheerful and vigorous, read this letter:

orous, read this letter:

Mrs. Catherine Theror of Albany, N. Y., writes: "Six months ago I felt that I was broken down by age and I was doomed to the weak and feeble condition of old people. The slightest exertion tired me, and I had no strength. My daughter brought me a bottle of Vinol. I soon felt an improvement. I continued its use, and am now well, cheerful and stronger than I have been for years; in fact, I feel 10 years younger."

Vinol is not a strong stimulant which reacts on the system, but it is a genuine tonic and body builder which creates strength by building up every organ in the body to do its work as nature intended, and makes rich red blood. In this way it stops the natural decline and replaces weakness with vigor. We wish every old person in Newark would try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it fails. Take a dose of Vinol after each meal and every night before retiring and note its beneficial effect. Frank D. Hall.

their main basis of supply, is imminent. All dispatches from the seat of hostilities this morning unite in indicating that such is now the objective of the Japanese war managers and news of the first shot in this attempt is momentarily expected.

RUSSIA

Accepts Uncle Sam's Proposal—The Powers Agree to Confine War to Certain Area.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The State department has received advices from Ambassador McCormick at St. Petersburg indicating that Russia's formal acceptance of Secretary Hay's note to the Powers, urging that the area of hostilities in the far east be limited, will shortly be forwarded to this government. France and the other principal Powers approached have already accepted the proposition advanced by the United States, and Japan has agreed to it, provided Russia also gives her promise to keep out of China, Manchuria excepted.

In diplomatic circles it is the opinion that Russia's adherence to the agreement will minimize the possibility of other nations being drawn into the conflict. China being assured of "administrative entity," whatever the result of the war, will, it is thought, be satisfied to stand by and let Japan and Russia fight it out. France's action in approving the Hay proposition is thought by diplomats here who have studied the matter to have had its effect in St. Petersburg. Russia it is believed, will give her assent mainly because she cannot afford to be the one Power dissenting.

CHEMULPO FIGHT

A Fierce Two Hour Engagement in Which the Variag and Korietz Were Destroyed.

Nagasaki, Friday, Feb. 12.—A dispatch from Chemulpo gives the following account of the destruction of the Russian cruiser Variag and gunboat Korietz. The Japanese fleet, commanded by Admiral Uriu on the flagship Aneuma arrived at noon and sent a wireless telegram to the Japanese cruiser Chicago which was lying at anchor between the Variag and Korietz to join the fleet outside. The Russians found themselves trapped. Admiral Uriu then signalled them five minutes in which to surrender. The Russians ignored the demand to surrender and the Japanese opened fire.

A brisk engagement lasting two hours followed. The Russian vessels getting the worst of an encounter in which the odds were overwhelmingly against them, steamed back into the harbor. The Variag, which was badly injured listed heavily. In two hours the Russians attempted to break through the Japanese fleet, which was encountered four miles from the inner harbor. A fierce fight followed. The Russian vessels were badly damaged. The Korietz was blown up, presumably by its own crew.

A portion of the crew was rescued by the French and Italian vessels in the harbor. The Variag tried to escape but suddenly an explosion was heard and the Variag was seen to sink. Whether she was sunk by a Japanese shell or by her own crew it is not known. The Vicksburg and the British cruiser Talbot witnessed the battle.

RUSSIAN RAIDERS

Have Caused Suspension of Traffic From Hakodate to Amori.

Yokohama, Feb. 15.—The four Russian cruisers which sank the Arima Maru had first appeared in Tsugaru Strait on the 14th escorting a transport from Vladivostok. Another steamer, the Zensho Maru, also met the Russian cruisers, but escaped from them.

All traffic between Hakodate and Amori has been suspended owing to Russian raiders. Great indignation is felt here over the sinking of a commercial steamer, and it is believed that it is a violation of the international law of warfare.

London, Feb. 15.—The Central News today learns from a Japanese official that another Russian cruiser has been sunk at Port Arthur.

MIKADO

Has Asked That Russia be Forced to Release His Subjects from Port Arthur.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Japan will appeal to the United States to prevail on the Russian government to release 400 Japanese subjects reported detained at Port Arthur. Mr. Takahira, the Japanese Minister, it is expected, will present the appeal to Secretary Hay today.

In a cablegram received from Tokio the Minister was informed that according to news brought to Chifu by a British steamer from Port Arthur 400 Japanese refugees had been taken from the steamer by the Russian authorities just before the vessel sailed, in spite of the protest of the Japanese.

Having agreed to look out for Japanese citizens in Russian territory during the war this government will instruct Mr. McCormick, the American Ambassador at St. Petersburg, to inquire of the Russian government on the subject as to the Japanese in question.

The best naval opinion here is to the effect that the detention of these Japanese at Port Arthur is a strategic necessity to prevent the Japanese gaining information as to the fortifications, troops, &c.

An official said: "During the siege of Paris, in the Franco-Prussian war, Representative Hitt, who was then in charge of the Legation there, looked after the large number of Germans who were detained at Paris by the French Government."

PLEIADES

Detained by the Russians, Has Arrived at Chifu—Details of the Attack.

London, Feb. 15.—The Boston Tow boat company's steamer, Pleiades, detained by the Russians has arrived at Chifu from Port Arthur. The captain of the vessel gives few additional details of the Japanese attack on the Russian vessels in Port Arthur harbor. He says the Russian cruiser Askold, which was damaged by Japanese shells was taken into the inner harbor, and sank on February 13. So far as he could ascertain the Russian casualties reported in the encounter were 29 killed and 60 injured, besides two killed and several wounded at Golden Hill fortress.

How Disaster Occurred.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 15.—According to the "Novoe Vremya," the Yenesei which was destroyed Friday, was laying mines at the entrance of Tallienwan bay, with the object of closing it against an attack from the sea. Observing that one of the mines had risen to the surface, the Yenesei approached for the purpose of blowing it up, when the vessel came in contact with another mine, which exploded and caused the disaster.

WAS FRIENDLY TO RUSSIA

London, Feb. 15.—The Reuter Telegram company states that the Japanese minister at Seoul has advised the emperor of the arrest of Yi Yong Ik, Korean minister of finance who is practically dictator of the country. He is most friendly to Russia.

AT VLADIVOSTOK.

Vladivostok Feb. 15.—The Russian government departments here have transferred to Nikolai and the Russo-Chinese bank has removed its valuables to Khabarovsk.

This move is significant as indicating that the Russian authorities consider that a Japanese attack on Vladivostok is imminent.

LATE BULLETINS ON THE WAR

London, Feb. 15.—The Tien Tsin correspondent of the Star, wiring yesterday's date, says that the reports of another Japanese victory at Port Arthur have been confirmed. The dispatch states that eight Russian vessels were sunk and ten captured, but that this latter statement is unofficial.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The Japanese minister, Mr. Takahira, called at the state department today to request this government to intervene with Russia on behalf of the 400 Japanese residents detained at Port Arthur by the Russians. This is taken to mean that the Japanese contemplate a bombardment of the city and wish first to have their own people removed to a place of safety. The department will make proper representations to Russia, but little hope of success is entertained.

The department has not yet received any reply from Russia to the note of Secretary Hay suggesting the neutrality of China and limitation of the zone of war.

Count Macchi, Italian charge d'affaires has informed the State department that his country looks favorably on the representations made in the circular note, but is not prepared as yet to make a formal reply.

Chifu, Feb. 15.—The fact that only 19,000 Japanese troops have been landed at Chemulpo is taken here to indicate that the bulk of the Japanese army has been deflected for a land investment of Port Arthur. Admiral Togo is still investing Port Arthur from the sea. The news that Japanese troops are landing on the eastern shore of Liao Tung gulf near Port Arthur is momentarily expected.

A party of Belgian engineers who were recently in Manchuria say that Port Arthur's defenses are weak on the land side and many of the batteries are incomplete. Long stretches of the Manchurian railway they say, are undefended.

Tokio, Feb. 15.—The report that the Vladivostok fleet has been torpedoed and sunk not far from Hakodate has not been confirmed. Instead a report has reached here that the Russian warships have entered the Pacific for a wide detour southward. A Japanese flying squadron has been detailed to watch the fleet.

From Tokio comes the official announcement that Japanese torpedo boats have sunk three of Russia's finest cruisers of the Vladivostok squadron.

Japan has landed an army of 19,000 men at Chemulpo, the seaport of Seoul, the capital of Korea.

The Japanese suffered heavy reverses at Dalny and Dove bay last week, and it is reported that nearly 2,000 of their soldiers were drowned by the sinking of a transport.

There is also a report that Japanese warships have sealed up Port Arthur. The Russians now have 3,000 men on the Yalu river and may invade Korea. It is reported that Russian raiders are already ravishing the northern country. The mobilization of Russian troops is proceeding rapidly.

This week may be expected to bring forth big events in the far East. France and China have both declared neutrality in the war.

GRAVE CONDITION

IN MANCHURIA.
London, Feb. 15.—The Reuter Telegram company says the Chinese government has informed the Powers that it cannot assume the responsibility for the maintenance of neutrality toward the war while part of its territory is still under foreign control. The condition in Manchuria is grave.

NEWS OF THE STATE AND NEIGHBORHOOD

DELEGATES

Selected by Republicans at Various Points in Ohio Develop Factional Fights in Some Cases.

Washington C. H., O., Feb. 15.—The Republican Central Committee of Fayette county, met in this city Saturday and selected twelve delegates to the judicial convention to be held at Circleville on February 18. The delegation was instructed for Dressbach.

Columbus Grove, O., Feb. 15.—The battle waged Saturday in the precincts of Putnam county between Hanna and Foraker factions resulted in the selection of Hanna delegates to the county convention by big majorities. N. E. Matthews of Ottawa, was endorsed for delegate to the National convention, defeating Wm. M. Reece, Foraker-administration boss of Putnam county.

Van Wert, O., Feb. 15.—The Republicans of the county met in delegate convention Saturday afternoon and made selections to represent the county in the Fifth Congressional convention, to be held in Defiance on February 19.

PIPE LINE

From Licking County Gas Field to Columbus—Commissioners Have Granted a Franchise.

Columbus, O., Feb. 15.—The county commissioners granted to Attorneys Fenwick Ewing and C. C. Clouse for J. W. Smith, a 25 year franchise for a pipe line from the Licking county gas fields to the city of Columbus. Work is to begin June 1 and the pipe line is to be completed by September 1, 1904. They are to put up bond in $1,000 for faithful performance of the contract, give the city gas for the court house and county jail for 15 cents per thousand, and pay 10 cents per rod to the county for every rod of pipe laid and give the farmers gas for a distance of 200 feet from their pipe line at the same rate as is paid by the city people.

GRANVILLE

Burial of Mrs. Rose Woodard Hunt at Maple Grove—Maurice Davis' Accident—Personals.

Granville, O., Feb. 15.—The remains of Mrs. Rose Hunt, formerly Miss Rose Woodard of this place, were brought here from Columbus, and the funeral services were held at the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon. Interment was made in Maple Grove cemetery. The deceased was a sister of Douglas Woodard of this place.

Maurice Davis, a young farmer residing a short distance east of this place, met with a painful accident on Saturday. He was engaged in cutting wood when he accidentally struck his left foot with the ax, inflicting an ugly wound.

Dr. Hanchett delivered the third of his series of musical lectures on Saturday evening, which was much enjoyed by all.

Howard Lewis of Toledo is the guest of his Sigma Chi brothers.

Thomas Lewis and Miss Gertrude Lewis of Toledo are visiting their brother, William Lewis.

A joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. was held on the hill Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Werner.

CLEVELAND EDITOR TO RESIGN

Cleveland, O., Feb. 15.—James F. Morrow, editor in chief of the Cleveland Leader, will resign on March 1.

Mr. Morrow has been with that paper for many years, and has been editor in chief for the last ten years.

Mr. Morrow will probably become a general correspondent but before taking up regular work again he will take an extended vacation.

Mr. Morrow will be succeeded as editor of the Leader by Edward R. Johnson, of New York.

SCHOOL HOUSE BURNS

Mt. Vernon, Feb. 15.—The Martinsburg public school house was destroyed by fire. The pupils and teachers escaped without injury.

ALIVE

AFTER RECEIVING 10,000 VOLTS OF ELECTRICITY.

An Electrical Worker in Cincinnati, Has a Narrow Escape, But is Recovering.

Cincinnati, Feb. 15.—Scientists say 15,000 volts of electricity will kill a man. Elias Dujan, 458 East Fifth street, is living testimony that such is not always the case.

While operating the arc light switchboards at the Edison Electric company plant Dujan accidentally effected a short circuit, and 10,000 volts of electricity went shooting through his body.

Had the current passed downward there would be another story to tell. It only entered at one hand and went out the other, burning the flesh as it went.

The muscular tension was sufficient to send the man reeling, to fall a helpless heap on the floor.

At the City hospital he said:

"Doctors say electrocution is painless. They are greatly mistaken. I never suffered so much in my life.

"I was thrown down with great violence by a general muscular tetanus, including such a stiff lockjaw that my bones ache terribly.

"The shapes of the electrical waves in my case were sharper and much more murderous than those passing through a man in the electric chair.

"There 1,700 volts are sufficient, while I received at least 10,000 volts."

LONGEST

Continuous River Trip Ever Made in America, to be Attempted March 1, from Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati, Feb. 15.—The longest continuous river trip ever made in the United States by a single boat will be attempted by the Cincinnati and Pittsburgh Packet company in March.

This trip will be of 4,000 miles and will be made on one steamboat. Many of the passengers will be members of the Rivers and Harbor committee.

The trip will occupy twenty days. The boat will leave Pittsburgh March 1 and will reach Cincinnati three days later.

A stop of three days will be made in New Orleans.

During the stay the company will be entertained by the New Orleans Cotton Exchange and other commercial bodies, including the Mississippi River and Levee Improvement Association.

TUBE WORKS RE-APPRAISED.

Zanesville, Feb. 15.—The property of the Eastern Tube company was re-appraised at $169,000 by Dr. M. W. Hisey, W. B. Cosgrave and S. A. Weiler, the old appraisers. Saturday afternoon, Walter Zinn the master commissioner, accompanied the appraisers to the tube works and value was fixed exactly as before.

The lots omitted from the description were included in the old appraisal, and it was not necessary to make a change in the figures.

The trip to the plant was a mere formality.

A BRIDE'S DEATH.

Columbus, O., Feb. 15.—Mrs. Chester Little, residing on Fifth street near the Cathedral, died Saturday of typhoid pneumonia. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dysart, who reside at Black Lick, O. The deceased was married to Mr. Little less than six months ago, and his grief because of his wife's untimely death is most acute.

DIPHTHERIA

Causes Death of a Third Member of Prominent Hopewell Township Farmer's Family

Zanesville, Feb. 15.—The twice-stricken family of Norton Dove of Hopewell again is bowed in sadness.

At 10 o'clock Sunday morning, Paul Dove, aged about seven years, died of diphtheria. He is the third member of the Dove family to die of the same disease within that many weeks.

The father of the bereaved family is a well-to-do farmer, and both he and his family are highly respected. As a result of the strict quarantine the grief stricken parents have been compelled to bear the sorrow of their children's death alone.

Another sad feature of the Dove deaths is the fact that the burial of each of the victims has been private. Not even the parents could accompany the remains of their dear ones to the last long resting place, let alone having any public funeral services.

Paul Dove was buried Sunday evening.

AMPUTATED ARM

Causes Hugh Friel Much Annoyance Until It Was Placed in Less Cramped Position.

Utica, O., Feb. 15.—Hugh Friel, the B. & O. brakeman whose left arm was mangled at Shelly last week, is getting along as well as could be expected. Mr. Friel complained yesterday that the arm which had been amputated was bothering him; that that hand was cramped and was causing him much pain. The arm had been placed in a box for burial and it seems that the box was a little too small so that the member was cramped.

Mr. Friel's father removed the arm and placed it in a larger box. When he told the son what he had done the patient declared that he felt better.

FUNERAL

Of Two Sisters Who Died Within a Few Hours of Each Other Held Sunday.

Springfield, O., Feb. 15.—O double funeral of sisters, who died of the same dreadful malady within one day of each other, caused much sadness in and around Bloomfield Sunday. The serious illness from pneumonia of another sister, in Norwich, lends additional sadness to the occasion.

At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the United Presbyterian church, of Bloomfield, Rev. J. G. Webster pastor of that church, preached a fitting sermon over the corpses of Mrs. Lorimer Rankin-Acheson, and Miss Sue Dankin. They were buried side by side in the Bloomfield cemetery.

Mrs. Acheson died at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening. Miss Rankin passed to the great beyond the next morning. Acute pulmonary trouble caused both deaths.

ICE DEALER LEAVES FORTUNE.

Dayton, O., Feb. 15.—The will of Ezra Blinn, who made a fortune out of an ice lake in this county, has been admitted to probate.

The estate is valued at $500,000 and is left to his sons, J. E. and H. H. Blinn, and the children of his other son, J. E. Blinn, now dead.

AGED PREACHER DEAD.

Cincinnati, Feb. 15.—Rev. J. A. Kirtley, aged 85, one of the oldest Baptist ministers in Northern Kentucky, died Saturday at his home near Petersburg, in Boone county. He had been a minister for more than 60 years and a pastor of the same church for 42 years.

Hundreds of lives saved every year by having Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the house just when it is needed. Cures cramp, heals burns, cuts, wounds of every sort.

LENT

THE GREAT ANNUAL FAST BEGINS NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Directions for Observance in This Diocese Issued by Order of Bishop Meckler.

Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, falls on February 17.

F. H. Specht, administrator, on the order of Bishop Meckler, has issued directions for the observance of Lent in the diocese as follows:

First—All the faithful who have completed their 21st year and are not over the age of 60 are unless hindered by hard work or by sickness, bound to observe the fast of Lent.

Second—All who are obliged to fast must abstain from the use of meat and take but one full meal a day, which is usually taken about noon. The Sundays are not fast days.

Third—The use of meat, by special dispensation, is allowed at any time or Sunday, and at the one principal meal on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, with the exception of Ember Saturday, March 7, and Holy Saturday, April 11.

Fourth—Meat and fish must not be eaten at the same meal, not even on the Sundays of Lent.

Fifth—Eggs, butter, cheese and milk are allowed at dinner and the evening collation.

Sixth—A small refreshment, commonly called collation, is allowed in the evening. It should not exceed the fourth part of an ordinary meal, or eight ounces.

Seventh—In the morning some warm liquid, such as tea, coffee or thin chocolate, together with a small piece of bread, may be taken; not butter or other condiment is allowed.

Eighth—Lard and suet may be used in preparing permitted food.

Ninth—When dinner cannot be taken at noon, it is allowed to invert the order, taking the collation earlier in the day, and dinner in the evening.

Tenth—Persons exempted from fasting, on account of tender or advanced age, hard labor or sickness are allowed to eat meat more than once a day, on days when the use of meat is allowed.

Then follow a number of exemptions and further instructions for the keeping of the fast.

The Episcopal church, as a denomination, observes Lent and the deliverances of the Catholic Bishop have almost the sanction of authority for Episcopalians, on this subject.

WHY IS IT SO

When it is known that its power to strengthen the system and build up the body is why Father John's Medicine cures colds and all throat and lung troubles, it will be understood why it is so valuable as a tonic and for driving the impurities out of the blood. It feeds the tissues and makes strength. All disease is due to a run down condition of the body, unhealthy tissue, blood poisoned with impurities, and general weakness. While we recommend Father John's Medicine for a number of ailments—in the cure of which it has always been successful, as those who endorse it will tell you—you must understand and remember that all these ills are of the same kindred or family; that they all come from the same source or cause, as stated above. The principle of this medicine is simple. It furnishes the food that the body requires, and strengthens each organ so that it can do its work—that is how the system is cleared of the impurities and poisonous waste matter—and it supplies bodily warmth and vitality. Its ingredients are the same kind of food and nourishment that blood and tissue are made of—pure and wholesome. Father John's Medicine sold in Newark by J. W. Collins & Son.

McKinley's Birth.

Columbus, Feb. 15.—The Bureau of Pensions, United States department of the interior, recently advised Assistant General Critchfield to certify definitely the date as to the date of the late President William McKinley. Mrs. McKinley, widow of the President, says the family Bible records show that William McKinley was born January 29, 1843.

More than 1,000,000 people are treated in the hospitals of London each year.

BOARD OF TRADE

Affair Will be Held at Assembly Hall Invitations are Sent Out by the Secretary.

Secretary Chas. W. Miller of the Newark Board of Trade has sent to members of the Board invitations to the annual meeting of the Board of Trade which will be held Thursday evening, February 18, in Assembly hall, the use of which has been kindly donated by the management of the hall.

The reception will begin at 7:30 and continue until 9 o'clock when the banquet will be served.

The arrangements were carried to a successful conclusion by the general committee, Messrs. E. W. Crayton, W. S. Weiant and E. J. Koos. The assistant committees are:

Invitations—C. H. Spencer, C. W. Miller, G. W. Scott.

Program—A. C. Dickinson, Wm. H. Smith, S. F. Van Voorhis.

Refreshments—W. C. Wells, Daniel Altschul, Chas. F. Dean, Joseph Kuster.

POLICEMAN

KILLED A DOG WITH FEW WELL DIRECTED BLOWS.

Affidavit Charges Dodson With Malicious Destruction of Property. The Police Court.

Officer John Scott of the night police force, noticed a dog which evidenced signs of being mad, on Church street, between Third and Fourth, which he killed by two well directed blows with his mace.

A man named Dodson was fined $10 and costs by Mayor Crilly Monday for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and later Dr. W. E. Wiyiarch filed an affidavit charging Dodson with malicious destruction of property. He got on a spree and in the evening took a horse and buggy belonging to a man named Walters, which was hitched on Fourth street, and started for a ride. In going through West Newark at a mad pace, a collision occurred with the buggy of Dr. Wiyiarch, which was standing in front of a patients' home. The buggy was badly damaged. Frank Reed, who was in the Doctor's buggy, was badly shaken up, but not seriously injured in the accident.

GAS FUMES

Cause Mrs. Sadie Johnson to Fall Unconscious—Others in Family Complained of Pain.

Mrs. Sadie Johnson, residing at 23 North Fourth street, was overcome by gas at her home on Friday evening. She had been working about the house and complained of a severe pain in her head. About 5 o'clock in the evening she became unconscious and fell to the floor. She was carried to the door where her husband and daughter soon succeeded in reviving her. Dr. D. M. Smith was called and gave her medical attention. The other members of the family were not seriously affected, although they complained of their heads aching. How the gas escaped is unknown as the plumbers were unable to find anything the matter with the stove or flue.

Ohio Bank Closed.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The comptroller of the currency has been advised by the cashier of the Galion National bank, Galion, Ohio, that the bank has been closed by order of the directors, because of its inability to meet coming demands. The comptroller has appointed National Bank Examiner Robert Lyons receiver. According to the statement dated January 22 the resources and liabilities were each $551,355.49.

LARGEST

Sunday Afternoon Attendance at Taylor Hall in the History of the Association.

People who have attended meetings and entertainments at Taylor hall ever since the Y. M. C. A. building was built, say that Sunday afternoon's attendance was the largest that has ever been seen there. Before 3 o'clock every seat in the house was taken. People continued to come and filled all the available standing room and finally many came and because they could not get in went away without hearing any of the program.

Between 700 and 800 people must have come to the building during the afternoon.

The program was indeed a credit to the soloists who took part in it. Every number was sung with fine feeling and interpretation. Mr. Walter Bentley Ball as Elijah, Miss Bertha Penney as the widow, and Miss Elsie Hirschberg in the role of the angel, each did excellent work. Mr. Rollin Williams assisted in the choruses as the tenor.

The introductory remarks and the reading of the passages of scripture connecting the different vocal numbers by Rev. H. Newton Miller, gave the program a unity and an effectiveness that could not have been attained in any other way.

Taken all in all the Elijah program was a most pleasing success, and while somewhat of a departure on the part of the Association from the usual Sunday afternoon program we feel that an occasional open meeting of this kind is very helpful and certainly most enjoyable.

U. B. CHURCH

SERVICES EVERY EVENING DURING THE WEEK.

Thirteen United With the Church Sunday and Five Accepted Pardon for Their Sins.

The services held at the East Main street United Brethren church on Sunday will not soon be forgotten. For the first time all of some families were united in church and became members. Thirteen united with the church and five accepted the pardon of their sins. Whole families were at the communion table. Rev. W. H. Wright is a clear, forceful speaker, and will be at the church each night this week at 7:15 o'clock.

West End Fire.

A barn on the premises of Mrs. Louisa Tompkins on West Main street, was burned to the ground this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Earl Gregory climbed on the roof of the house occupied by F. H. Reasoner, which caught fire from the barn, and fell off breaking an arm, cutting his head and otherwise injuring him painfully, but not seriously.

NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE CO. of Hartford, Conn.

The statement of the National Fire Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. made December 31st, 1903, shows gross assets $6,463,228.59, net surplus $1,823,258.93, and surplus to policy holders $2,823,258.93. It will be able therefore to pay its Baltimore losses, which amount to about $500,000.00, in full, and have a net surplus of nearly $1,500,000.00 in addition to its capital of $1,000,000.00, for the protection of its policy holders.

This disaster in Baltimore has brought to the minds of the insuring public the importance of securing indemnity in the strongest companies, and the above statement certainly leaves no doubt as to the strength of the National, and to those desiring insurance, we offer the protection afforded by a policy in this company at the prevailing rates.

Knights of Columbus.

Sunday was a red letter day for the Knights of Columbus of Mt. Vernon. It was the occasion of the initiation of a class of about sixty candidates. There was a large attendance, many being present from Columbus, Zanesville, Demmon, Newark and other places. The special train chartered by Newark Council, pulled out of Newark shortly after nine o'clock on Sunday morning with about 125 Knights on board. On their arrival in Mt. Vernon they were met by the recreation committee and escorted to the hall of the Mt. Vernon Knights of Columbus, where the exercises were held. The Newark Knights are loud in their praises of the treatment they received.
